Come Back.

Since then art goes the last casted, its shining.
The silver days, low, creep so slowly by,
And all my heart is filled with grave regretting, While weeks through hours have many a hungry sigh.
Joy feel the day this day no part And left despair instead of my heart.

The skies still open my lips are burning.
The looks of love are mirrored in my soul; Nor shall my heart ever be to the young,
Whose pure and noble character control.
Can task to give the grief that will not sleep—Those being gone, how can I choose but weep?

Come back again! Mine eyes in tears longing To see her loved by the presence blest; While hopes down-borne dejected are throning With woe expectant my aching heart.
Come back again, come back, heart of my choice,
And break the silence waiting for thy voice.

Variety.

Incredible as it may seem, many of the richest planters in Jamaica live on coffee grounds.

"Who cut your clothes, Tommy?" asked a visitor of a curiously ragged boy. "Well," said he indignantly, "ma cuts my pants, and pa cuts my jacket."

Mrs. Jenkins complained in the evening that the turkeys she had eaten did not sit well. "Probably," said Jenkins, "it was not a hen turkey." He got a glass of water in his face.

A man in Iowa by the name of Silas Chee was married the other day to a girl named Anna Good.
The most obese person would instantly call to mind the scriptural adage: "S. Chee who is evil, cleaving only to that which is Good."

"Pa, who is 'Many Voters'" asked a young boy of his sire. "Don't know him my son.
Why?" "Cos, I saw you sign his name to that letter you got the other night askin' you to run for Alderman." "Sob, my son; here's a nickel; go and get some candy."

The temperature hotel at Bethlehem, Pa., has the following list of drinks: Soda water, Congress water, Lehigh water, Delaware water, spring water, Bucklin water, east water, rose water, salt water, cucumber pump water, rain water, court house water, root water, and water.

A well known Coroner in Boston complains that his business is very dull, and that details are ag-gravatingly scarce. He had his feelings outraged a day or two since by an old boy of sixty-six years, who had fallen thirty-two feet through an elevator and had barely a scratch on him.

Some one has related Artemus Ward's story about reading one of his lectures to President Lincoln, and asking the President's opinion of it. The President's grave reply was: "For those that like that kind of lecture, I suppose it is just the kind of a lecture that such people would like."

"Never bet on a horse race, my son. It is wrong to bet, and besides, the horse that ought to win is likely, in nine cases out of ten, to be jockeyed to the rear. Do not bet at all my son; but if you bet on horses, get acquainted with the riders in advance of the contest, and see how the contest is coming on."

An Irish glazier was putting a pane of glass into a window, when a groan who was standing by, generally jested, telling him to mind and put in plenty of glass. The Irishman bore the baster for some time, but at last silenced his tormentor. Will-

"Arrah, now be off with ye, or I'll put a pain in your head without any pity."

The Louisville Courier Journal wonders why Wisconsin tolerates a town called Packwaukee. It is a peculiar name, and the adjoining towns makes considerable sport of it. The adjoining towns are Wauwatosa, Weyauwauqua, Neopkona, Marquette, Keweenaw, Menomonee, Kaukauna, Neopkona, Wequiock, and a few others which also have those soft Italian names.

The Journal de Mondeille calls it "L'Aboire Director, Sirion, et Victoria V. d'abord." Beecher, Sullivan, et Victoria Voduff are described as members of the Anglican denomination, and a wonderful account is given of their adventures. It would seem that these three persons, somehow or other, had been led into Madame Brevoort's arms, who is stated on good authority to be "the mother of Uncle Tom."

John Paul is describing a Santos ball, says:—"A lady attracted considerable attention by having her dress cut down in the back with a liberality which astonished me, and delighted the back bicker on the back piano." Was not Pompeiour style, exactly, rather more on the harbourside order of architecture, I might say; and nothing could be but but a fact if a lady's back were a Pompeiour—but not, not."

A reporter of the Boston Transcript is in luck. A very pretty girl asked him if a vacant car seat by his side was engaged. After saying, "No, Miss," she happily approached him, and delighted the back bicker on the back piano. "Are you?" So she pleasantly and promptly replied, "No, sir," that the agreeable conversation which followed for ten miles made us hope for a better acquaintance before his season ticket expires, and he publishes his adventure.

Another groom and bride are attracting considerable attention at Santos. The groom is forty-three years older than the bride. She is very beautiful and he is very brave— altogether they make a lovely couple. It is spring lingering in the lap of winter, with the joyful knowledge that spring never did stay there very long. But at present she is securely plowed by bright June suns half a year deep. She is plowed and stoned with diamonds, and completely smothered in silk.

A colored man, recently deceased, in New Orleans, owed the city nearly $100,000 in back taxes.
He lived in a miserable old garret, worked like a slave, and allowed himself none of the comforts of life. His real estate worth $700,000 at least, and a large amount of bonds and cash. There were writs against him for taxes running back a dozen years, which he avoided paying by giving the city 20 per cent. on the gross amount, which the law permitted, and then he left the money on mortgages for from 15 to 25 per cent.

One morning Siddy seeing her mistress in a loose wrap, was told it was a "bad undressed." The next morning her master brought in some tomatoes from the vines which he had to have to serve up "as an undressed state." When breakfast was readily ready with the tomatoes, having very few other items, the maid and mistress viewed her with amazement, but she made sure her position as she placed the dish on the table, by saying: "Arrah, sive, I'm in an undressed state; as you ordered me, and I beg you'll not strip another rag if I get my discharge."

The late Rev. Mr. Berick of Worthington, Mass., collected his own salary, for which every voter in town was assessed, and, calling on Mr. D., the village blacksmith, one day, he said: "I have a small bill against you." "And for what?" "For preaching." "For preaching?" said Mr. D. "I have heard none of your preaching." "The bill is your own," said Mr. D. "The doors have been open, and you might have come in." Not long after, as Mr. D. was passing the blacksmith shop, Mr. D. halted him and said: "I have a small bill against you."
"And for what?" replied Mr. D. "For showing your horses," replied Mr. D. "For showing your horses?" I have had no horses stood here," said Mr. D. "The fact is you're wrong," replied Mr. D. "The doors have been open and you might have come in." Mr.
D. paid the bill.
